2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

A device for storing printing plates according to the preamble of claim 1 is described in each of the documents D1 (US-A-4 727 807) and D2 (PATENT ABSTRACTS OF JAPAN, Vol. 1999, No. 04, 30 April 1999 (1999-04-30) & JP 11 010834 A (DAINIPPON SCREEN MIT FREUNDLICHEN GRÜSSEN CO LTD), 19 January 1999 (1999-01-19)).

Claim 1 differs from this prior art by its characterising features, namely, a control unit that compares the detected feature with an assignment plan for the intended printing process, checks all printing plates stored in a storage device to verify whether the printing plates in the storage device are stored in the correct sequence for the intended printing process, and if the comparison shows a mismatch, generates a message warning against a faulty mounting before the printing plate is mounted on the cylinder.

The subject matter of claim 1 is therefore novel (PCT Article 33(2)).

The problem addressed is that of providing a printing plate storage device and a management device which make a secure and fast printing plate exchange possible.

The known documents cannot suggest, either alone or in combination, a subject matter having the features of claim 1 for this purpose.

Claim 1 therefore involves an inventive step and, together with the advantageous developments as per dependent claims 2-20, meets the requirements of PCT Article 33(1) to 33(4).
